President Paul von Hindenburg Dies

HITLER TAKES HIGH POSITION IN SEVEN HOURS

Calls Presidential Plebiscite for August 19; Army Takes Oath.
ALLEGIANCE TO NAZIS LEADER

(Copyright 1934, by the AP)
Berlin, Aug. 2.—President Paul von Hindenburg died today and within seven hours Chancellor Adolf Hitler had succeeded him and ordered a nation-wide presidential plebiscite for August 19.
Also within that seven hours was formulated a new oath by which the Reichswehr, the standing army of Germany, will pledge its allegiance to Hitler.
Von Hindenburg died in his 87th year at 9 a. m. (3 a. m. E. S. T.) in his country mansion at Neudeck, East Prussia. Almost simultaneously with the announcement of his death came announcement that the office of chancellor and the presidency had been merged.
Any doubts as to what position the Reichswehr, long faithful to Hindenburg, might take were dispelled at least temporarily by Werner von Blomberg, minister of war, who announced that the army would take a new oath.
Funeral services for Hindenburg are to be held tomorrow at Tannenberg where he stopped the Russian advance in 1914. He is to be buried Saturday at Neudeck.

Berlin, Aug. 2 (AP).—Paul von Hindenburg, president and hero of Germany, grew weaker Wednesday night and his stout heart beat more slowly.
He lapsed into unconsciousness at Neudeck, his country estate, and it was announced he was in death throes.
n>About an hour and a half later, at 9:50 p. m., his physician, Dr. Ferdinand Sauerbruch, telephoned to Berlin that he was amazed at the president's power of resistance and that he might linger for some time.
Noted Specialists Called
The opinion that Von Hindenburg may "survive the night and even today" was expressed by Dr. Riets, Neudeck physician, who was called in to join the specialists in charge of his case.
Prof. Gustave von Bergmann, one of Germany's most famous specialists, arrived at Neudeck at 9 p. m. for a consultation with the other physicians who are attending the president.

Heart Palpitation Develops
Dr. Riets said that Von Hindenburg has an unusually healthy heart, which may hold out for another day, although there is palpitation and it is becoming weaker, according to dispatches from Neudeck.
The news of Von Hindenburg's condition followed the revelation by a close friend of Chancellor Adolf Hitler that the latter planned, in the event of Von Hindenburg's death, to become both president and chancellor. This step, say political observers, would give Hitler a dictatorship as absolute as any in the world.

The physician's bulletin announcing the growing weakness of the 86-year-old field marshal-general was issued at the end of a day during which at one time he had shown improvement.
Bulletins Are Resumed
The doctors earlier had reported that the remarkable vitality of the Reichs-president again had demonstrated itself and had announced that bulletin service was suspended. A short time later, however, the four noted specialists at Neudeck issued this bulletin:
"The Reichs-president's weakness is increasing. He is gradually losing consciousness. His heart is slowing."
Hitler Visits Von Hindenburg
Hitler visited the Reichs-president in a hurried trip. With his immediate entourage the chancellor flew Marienburg and then motored to Neudeck. He was with the president for an hour and a quarter.

Three Youths Are Hurt in Accident

Three Dillsburg youths were injured when their automobile skidded, knocked over a concrete road sign, then overturned in a ditch near the intersection of the Gettysburg pike and the Williams Grove road late Wednesday afternoon.
The most seriously injured is Samuel Krough, thirteen, who suffered a deep laceration across the forehead. Richard Steck, twelve, has abrasions of the head and bruises about the legs. William Stough, eighteen, driver of the machine, suffered cuts about the shoulders and hip injury. They were brought to the office of Dr. W. L. Crawford, in Dillsburg, by a farmer working in a nearby field, who heard the crash.
Stough said he was driving an automobile owned by Charles C. Hutton, who boards with the Stecks, when the steering gear apparently locked, he explained.

Farmers Are Urged To Hold Their Hay For Higher Prices

Adams county farmers, along with others throughout the state, today were urged by John A. McSparran, secretary of agriculture, to hold their hay for higher prices.
"For a month past, the Philadelphia papers have been carrying a quotation of $13 to $14 for the best hay," he said.
"There is no $13 or $14 hay in the country at the present time and there is not likely to be any for the next year."
"The hay crop is very, very short. The quotation for the best hay is $22 in New York city and it is higher than that now in Pittsburgh."
"Farmers ought to be getting from $16 to $20 a ton, according to location, for first grade hay at the present time. If they will hold their hay there is no doubt that they will get a splendid price for it sometime in the near future."
"Dealers are taking advantage of this false quotation in the Philadelphia papers and are buying hay at $8 a ton. That is a direct steal."

NO MONEY TO PAY STATE'S INFIRM

Liquor Stores' Profits Insufficient to Give Aged Monthly Pensions.

Between 35,000 and 40,000 needy aged in the state will have to wait for some time for monthly pensions voted them by the legislature because of failure of Pennsylvania's liquor stores to show expected profits.
The 1933 special session appropriated $4,000,000 from liquor revenues for the aged and payments were to have been started in December.
To date only $125,000 in liquor profits have been used. That amount has been turned over to the department of welfare for payment to indigent blind for the month of June. No allocations have been announced for July and August and there is no indication when they will be made.
Attorney General William A. Schnader, republican nominee for governor, pointed out that while the aged poor may not receive their pensions for some time, there will be no particular hardship because virtually all of them already are on relief rolls.
The old age pension act provides that no payments shall be made until the liquor control board has turned over $200,000 for unemployment relief and $1,310,000 for blind pensions.
Inasmuch as the board has reported virtually no profit to date, there was no indication when old age pension money will be available.

Old Iron Furnace Will Be Restored

Work is now going on to restore an old iron furnace which stands in Franklin county near the Path Valley road in Metal township, south of Fannettsburg. The project is under the auspices of the Kittochitny historical society. Judge Watson R. Davison, Milton K. Burner and George Lehner form a committee in charge of construction. The aims of the society in restoring this landmark of a vanished industry is to make it as near as it was originally as possible, said John L. Pinafrock, president of the society.
The land on which the furnace stands was given the Kittochitny society by heirs of the Norths, a family who once lived in that region and owned several farms, a considerable tract of wooded land and the furnace itself. The furnace which is now being restored for its historical significance ceased to operate in the 1880's. The iron used in the furnace when it was in operation was mined from mountains immediately surrounding Path Valley.

The information was made against Houck by a member of the state highway motor patrol.

PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR NOVEMBER

G. O. P. Nominees, Chairmen And Other Leaders Flay Administration.

Harrisburg, Aug. 2 (AP)—Republican candidates today blamed Pennsylvania's unemployment relief crisis on the federal administration.
Nominees for state-wide offices, county chairmen and other leaders gathered to discuss plans for the autumn campaign, criticized the Washington authorities in a resolution.
The meeting expressed "resentment at the discrimination of federal officials against Pennsylvania and her people in the allocation of federal relief funds."
The federal government gave Pennsylvania sufficient money to last through August and served notice no additional help will be forthcoming until the state "bears a reasonable portion of the load."
The resolution also said a special session now "would be an extravagant waste of public funds."
Attorney General William A. Schnader said if he is elected governor he will see to it the next regular session of the legislature immediately passes unemployment relief legislation.

POLICE RADIO INSTALLED HERE

Patrol Office and Sergeant Boate's Car Equipped With Short Wave Sets.

Two short-wave receiving sets were placed in operation today at the local sub-station of the state motor patrol, Buford avenue. One is located in the patrol office while the other was placed in the official car of Sergeant T. N. Boate, commanding officer of the sub-stations here and at Chambersburg.
Recently, the Pennsylvania state police launched its short-wave broadcasting system in Lancaster county, where a number of motor car cruisers were equipped with receiving sets.
Now the system is being extended to include the motor patrol.
The receiving sets at the local sub-station are similar to the ordinary radio set, and broadcasts from Harrisburg, where the broadcasting station is located, are heard clearly.
All messages are read twice so that those listening may make no mistakes in receiving orders.
According to reports, the state is planning to do away with its state police teletype system and substitute the radio for broadcasting police information.

Vienna, Aug. 2 (AP)—Paul Hudl, fifth nazi to go on trial for implication in the putsch in which Chancellor Dollfuss was killed, today was convicted of high treason and sentenced to life imprisonment.
The sentence was imposed after a brief trial before a court martial, generally expected to sentence Hudl, a former officer in the Austrian army, to death on the gallows.
Three other nazis were hanged for implication in the putsch.
The former officer created a sensation in his testimony by stating the federal employees of the chancellery did not have the feeling of being prisoners after nazis seized the building.

FARM ANIMALS ARE KILLED BY POISON PLANTS

State Botanist Cites Poisonous Plants That Are Causing Loss.

TRACE DEATHS TO MANY SOURCES

Many deaths of farm animals this summer in Pennsylvania are being traced to poisonous plants, particularly water hemlock, according to Dr. E. M. Gress, chief botanist, state bureau of plant industry. Plant poisoning of livestock, he explained, occurs usually during July, August and September when the pasture is likely to become parched and scant. Among the plants which cause most injury are wild black cherry, common black locust, water hemlock, white snake-root and bracken fern.
Water hemlock is particularly troublesome this summer due to the extremely dry weather—in many parts of the state, according to the botanist. This plant grows in swampy places and is, therefore, usually green when other portions of the pasture may be brown. The poisoning is ordinarily caused by the animal eating a portion of the plant, although cases are known where it appears that cattle have been poisoned by drinking water which stood in a pool where they had trampled about and crushed some of the roots of the water hemlock.

Should Recognize

Every farmer should learn to recognize this source of danger and take every precaution to prevent loss, Dr. Gress said. One of the best distinguishing features of the plant is the swollen part of the stem, commonly called the root-stock. This is the portion just above the point where the clustered roots originate. If this root-stock is split open, one will see partitions running crosswise which divide the root-stock into chambers. In the early spring these chambers are filled with a liquid but later they are empty. The stem of the plant which may grow to the height of eight feet is hollow except at the joint where the leaves are attached. It is usually streaked with purple lines.

Poisonous After Breaks

Wild black cherry is not poisonous if eaten when the leaves are fresh, but often limbs are broken from the trees and in a few hours the leaves become wilted when a deadly poison known as prussic acid, is formed. If cattle eat these wilted leaves, serious results usually follow.

Common black locust may not cause much trouble, for ordinarily not a great amount is eaten. More injury has been reported of horses which have been tied to locust trees eating the bark with fatal results.
White snake-root does not begin to bloom until this month but it will cause trouble if eaten before it blooms. It is a woodland plant.

In northern Pennsylvania, many farmers have trouble every year. In that section of the state the bracken fern is especially abundant. While there is difference of opinion as to the poisonous character of the bracken fern, it has been quite definitely proven by experiment that it is poisonous, Dr. Gress asserted.

250,000 AUTOS ARE INSPECTED

State Pushes Campaign to Inspect Every Vehicle On Highway.

The beginning of August finds Pennsylvania well under way with its task of reinspecting every motor vehicle on its highways.
The bureau of highway patrol and safety today estimated that a quarter of a million cars and trucks were inspected during July, the first month of the campaign, which ends September 30. During the latter part of the month reports of inspections were received at the rate of about 50,000 a week, sending the month's aggregate ahead of the total for July last year.
Throughout the state, motor club and dealers' organizations are co-operating with the bureau in its effort to have inspections made as early as possible and to avoid the rush usually encountered in the last month of inspection campaigns.
Encouraged by the July response, the bureau and cooperating agencies are now engaged in a drive to send the inspection total as close as possible to the million mark by the end of August.
Present indications point to the registration of about 1,750,000 motor vehicles by the end of September, leaving about a million and a half cars to be inspected and approved during the months of August and September.
The usual enforcement period, during which highway patrolmen will make a state-wide check on uninspected vehicles, will start on October 1.

Want All Birth Records Current

Personnel of the state division of inspection have been engaged in the last ten days in an intensive drive to bring birth records up to date.
"While the vast majority of practicing physicians comply with the law, there are always a minority who are decidedly careless in making these reports," said George A. Strine, division chief, today.
"The activities of the department over a period of years in this connection have educated many members of the medical profession to the need of prompt compliance with birth registration regulations. There are however always a number of births among the approximately 165,000 occurring annually in Pennsylvania which are not promptly reported to the department. This limits the value of statistical data and service. In most instances warnings are sufficient to remove the negligents involved," concluded Strine.

Wilkes-Barre, Aug. 2 (AP)—J. Harold Flannery, assistant district attorney, Wednesday night said Robert Edwards, 23, had admitted killing Freda McKechnie, 26-year-old church worker whose body was found in Harvey's Lake.

The young engineer for the Kingston Coal company said in a statement, Flannery announced, that he hit the girl on the head with a blackjack and then pulled her beneath the water to the spot, 200 feet from shore, where her body was found late Tuesday.

Edwards had maintained, through hours of questioning, that the girl drowned while on a swimming party.

Dr. Thomas Wenner, coroner's pathologist, announced after an autopsy that the young woman would have become a mother in five months. He added she had not drowned and said there was a severe laceration on the back of her head. The body, clad in a bathing suit, was found in four feet of water, 200 feet from shore, last night.

Police said they learned Edwards, an engineer for the Kingston Coal company, and Miss McKechnie had been friends for the past five years. Tuesday morning they arranged a swimming party but Edwards and Miss McKechnie were alone at the beach, he said.

Third Nazi Is Hanged in Austria

Vienna, Aug. 2 (AP).—With the hangman's rope, a sentence of imprisonment and empty pay envelopes, the government of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg Wednesday pressed its fight against the defeated Nazi rebels of Austria.

Friedrich Wurnig, a Nazi, was hanged at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at Innsbruck, three hours after he was sentenced to death for killing Police Commandant Franz Hickl in that city last Wednesday.

Wurnig, the third Nazi to die on the gallows in two days, collapsed when he was told that clemency was refused and had to be carried to the gallows.

Although his crime occurred about the same time that Chancellor Dollfuss was killed in the Nazi putsch, but had no direct connection with that outbreak.

State Treasury Balance Increases

Pennsylvania's treasury balance at the start of August business was $53,013,595, compared with $56,372,091 a month before.

Of the balance, $19,192,894 was in the operative funds and $33,820,701 in the custodial funds. The motor fund, with a balance of $14,048,044, was the largest of the operative funds. The general fund contained $2,133,121.

A year ago the treasury balance was $44,950,811, the general fund $12,155,139 and the motor fund $12,799,640.

Even School Tots Feel Dollfuss Ire

Vienna (A. P.).—Expression of political opinion disliked by the government continues to be dangerous for Austrian school children.

Within the past school year 175 pupils were expelled from secondary schools for political offenses. Twenty-five were banned from all schools in Austria.

This announcement was accompanied by a warning that even the wearing during vacation of articles of clothing capable of a political interpretation will be punished by school authorities.

Wife of Deposed Governor Heads North Dakota Ticket

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 2 (AP).—A former New York society girl was designated republican nominee for governor of North Dakota Wednesday by a group of hard-bitten farmers.

Mrs. William A. Langer, wife of the man who was deposed as chief executive of the state two weeks ago, was named by the party's state central committee to make the gubernatorial race in November only a few minutes after her husband had resigned the nomination. She was designated a "vindication" candidate to lead the Langer faction by a vote of 36 to 9.

Will Head Ticket

Mrs. Langer, a newcomer in politics, will head the ticket which her husband led to a smashing primary victory only two days before he was convicted and sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment on a charge of conspiracy to solicit political contributions from federal relief workers.

Demand for Farm Labor Increases

The demand for farm labor in Pennsylvania is greater this summer than any other since 1930, according to reports made to the federal-state crop reporting service. The demand expressed in per cent. of normal was 78 on June 1 this year compared to the record low point of 66 on January 1, 1933. Furthermore, the supply of farm labor reported as 103 per cent of normal on June 1, was the lowest since 1930 but far above the record low of 70, reported on October 1, 1932.

The trend in farm wages has been upward since reaching on April 1, 1933, their lowest point of the post-war period. On that date, the prevailing wage rate was: Per month with board, $18.25; per month without board, $29.75; per day with board, $1.10; per day without board, $1.55. The wages reported on April 1, this year, were about 10 per cent higher than those prevailing a year previous.

Low Cody Estate Nets $10 at Sale

Beverly Hills, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP).—The estate of Low Cody, motion picture actor, actually received only $10 in the sale at auction Wednesday of his Beverly Hills mansion, built at a cost of $50,000 by Pauline Frederick, star of the stage and screen.

Subject to approval of the public administrator, the rambling English Norman structure was sold to Robert M. Love for $15,010, but there were two mortgages totaling $15,000 against the property.

About 600 persons, mostly sightseers, gathered around the auctioneer as he placed the property on the block and set the opening bid at $1,000. He explained that no bids below that figure would be accepted. Only one bid was made.

Remaining to be sold were the personal effects of the actor and his three automobiles, two of them custom built machines.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Financial markets were a trifle uneasy today and quiet profit taking was the rule in most categories. Stocks drifted moderately lower from the start although extreme dullness prevailed in all sections of the list.

Shares of Sterling products dropped 2 points. U. S. Smelting was off nearly two and losses of fractions to a point or so included American telephone, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Bethlehem steel, Consolidated Gas, New York Central, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Johns Manville and American Smelting.

SEEK CIGAR PEACE

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—The cigar manufacturers' code authority meets late today in an effort to arrive at a "emergency solution" to the wage problems in the hand cigar industry in York county, Pa., where several thousand workers are idle because operators say they cannot pay the NRA wage minimum and make a profit.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Miller, of Biglerville, announce the birth of a son in the Reading City hospital on August 1. The mother and baby are both getting along nicely.

Eight World Records Are Set By Largest Flying Boat in U. S.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—The largest flying boat in the United States, the S-42 of the Pan-American Airways, maintained a speed of 157.32 miles an hour over a 1,242.8-mile course Wednesday in its transport test flight. The plane set eight world records.

Bound for service shortly on a South American trade route, it took off from the Housatonic river near Stratford, Connecticut, at 9:25 a. m. (E. S. T.) and returned from the trial run at 4:18 p. m. (E. S. T.). Boris Sergievsky, of the Sikorsky Aviation corporation, builder of the ship, assisted at the controls.

With him were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, technical adviser to the Pan-American and four others.

STRIKE IN YORK COUNTY ENDING

Labor in York and Red Lion Assumes Peaceful Attitude.

York, Pa., Aug. 2.—With the strike at the Phylberne, Inc., shirt mill, this city, amicably settled, and workers ordered to return to work today, and the situation in the cigarmakers' strike at Red Lion assuming a less belligerent atmosphere, the labor situation is more peaceful in York county.

When Herbert B. Cohen, a member of the state legislature, assured Major Lynn J. Adams, of the state police, that persons wanted on warrants for alleged participation in the riot in Red Lion last Thursday would surrender to magistrates, if the list of those wanted was produced, he withdrew four state troopers sent to the borough to assist in serving warrants. Eight men were arrested before the troopers were withdrawn.

About 1,000,000 cigars were shipped under the terms of the truce agreed to by the union that shipments would not be molested.

A meeting of the code authority in New York was scheduled to review affidavits made by 75 county handmade manufacturers of 2 for 5 cent cigars who are requesting a greater tolerance than 25 per cent of "slow" workers. Payroll information also is included in the affidavits, which were scanned by Kenneth L. Cox, manufacturer's representative on the commission named by the code authority to study the York county situation.

The requests will be acted on individually by the code authority. In case greater tolerance than at present granted is felt to be justified, the code authority will recommend that the code administration at Washington grant greater tolerance, up to 50 per cent, for an "emergency period," at present set not to exceed 30 days.

Fighting Woman Arrests Intruder

Philadelphia, Aug. 2.—Beware of Amazons! That was the lesson held out for all burglars Wednesday, when singlehanded Mrs. Florence Loechner, 30, this city, captured a robber suspect in Wildwood, New Jersey.

Mrs. Loechner, former Frankford high school athlete and operator of the Wyandotte hotel, in Wildwood, arrived in her hostelry, following a swim, only to be informed by guests that a strange man had gone upstairs.

She also went up stairs. She found the man, who later gave his name as Jacob Alzon, 24, in her bedroom. She attacked Alzon up a good fight, but it wasn't good enough. Mrs. Loechner dragged him down stairs and turned him over to police.

Wildwood police asserted he has been implicated in several robberies there and is wanted by Philadelphia police for forcible entry. They found a kit of burglar tools in his baggage.

SCHWAB SAID TO BE VERY ILL AT LORETTO HOME

Loretto, Aug. 2 (AP).—Charles M. Schwab, last of the colorful old steelmasters, is ill at his summer home—a palatial estate high in the Alleghenies overlooking the scenes of his boyhood.

Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and the man whom the late Andrew Carnegie liked to refer to as "one of my young geniuses," is described by his physician, Dr. D. S. Rice, as "very ill."

The steel man, 72 years old, was stricken with indigestion Monday and has been under the doctor's care since that time. He is confined to bed.

With Schwab is his mother, Mrs. Paulina Schwab, now 92, and his wife.

Soviet Offers New Debt Settlement

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP).—On the eve of the resumption of American-Soviet debt negotiations, the foreign policy association described what it termed a "reported offer" from Russia to settle both the Kerensky debt and private American claims by a "lump sum payment."

"The vexing debt and claim parleys resume today between Secretary Hull and Alexander Troyanovsky, the Russian ambassador."

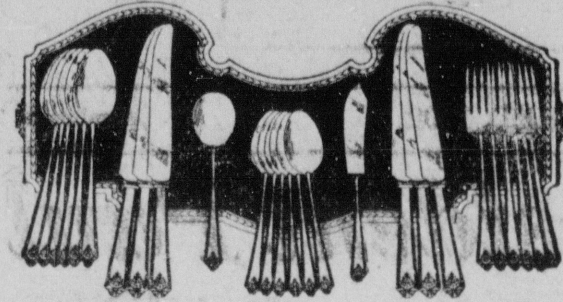

The secretary of state said today an agreement over the debt matter took precedence over other questions involved between the two countries.

Observers took this to mean there was little likelihood of any understanding between the two countries on the deportation of aliens until the central issue is out of the way.

The foreign policy association report was written by Vera M. Dean, of the association's research staff. It is reported that:

"It is said that the U. S. S. R., has offered to pay a lump sum, to be determined by agreement, which would liquidate the debt of the provisional (Kerensky) government and the claims of American nationals."

SPITE MARRIAGE

By Katharine Haviland Taylor

Chapter 34 TORN LETTER

SYNOPSIS: While Bob Powers closes up his work in Mexico, Marsha, his wife, is caring for Bob's mother in New York. Marsha and Bob have been on the verge of divorce, but when Mrs. Powers becomes incurably ill, Bob decides they must pretend to love each other for her sake. Marsha writes to ask whether her careful reports of his mother's condition annoy Bob.

Bob's situation had been even more difficult than had been Marsha's. He was straining to accomplish in one week more than two men could in a month, his one thought being to get his work done along so that he could cut out and run. The day's work done, here was usually nothing left for him but moody reverie or wonder.

He could not mingle with his associates or stay with them menially even when they were loudest. They watched him anxiously, and, because he was a general favorite, they forgave his nervous irritability.

Young Todd, the insatiable gossip always found in every group of his size, wondered (aloud) why there was no portrait, in Powers' fittings, of Powers' wife. A more obstinate type wheeled on him to order him to silence and in terms that left no doubt of his being headed.

"Like to stir up talk, wouldn't you?" Young Todd heard. "And a lot of reason for it, with Powers pending every free hour reading her letters. Alexander says he's wakened at night to see Bob reading 'em by the light of a candle. So suppose you shut up!"

Young Todd did, but he could not help wondering why Powers had no portrait of his wife, while he had so of his mother; silverframed. "It's odd!" he murmured to himself, in his precise and, to men, maddening way. "Very odd!"

Bob had been starved for word from Marsha; personal word of her. He had read every letter until its reuses were worn and a trifle soiled. He looked between the lines about his mother, lines that counted and meant everything, to try to decipher how Marsha was.

And upon that late February evening, when he read the letter in which Marsha asked him whether the annoyed him with too much detail, he laughed almost naturally. He pulled a sheet of paper from a rudely made rack—he was sitting by a table which served as a desk—and then recklessly he scrawled:

"Yes, your letters annoy me; they annoy me so deeply that I keep Vicente Gonzales in town, having reserved a permanent seat for him in the post-office.

"You see, I keep thinking that a miracle is going to happen and that, in one of your extra letters which are not written for effect upon another, you will some day slip in a dear." But they tell much of you, without a dear, and they are wonderful letters, and they make me wonder how long my life must be without you.

"Yes, they are very wonderful letters and I always hope, as I see Vicente and his mule swinging into the gulch and crawling up to us that he will bring more than John Drake's cut plug and Alexander's home papers and the sugar or tea for Ling; my hope being for one of those letters that 'annoys' me.

"And sometimes I dream, (this is badly mixed, but thinking of you I can't be coherent; I am only very hungry thinking of you, dearest) sometimes I dream that this time there will be a gently sincere and affectionate letter from you in the saddle-bag.

"Yet I know I am a fool to dream so, for I would know if you wrote that sort. There would be a new, bright star in my sky, down here, and I, looking up, would say, 'There's a letter of the sort I need coming to me from my wife! Get it, my pronto, Vicente, or I will kill you!'

"Or perhaps, I would run all the way myself, (and I rather think I would) because it would be so much easier than waiting."

He sat back. His own hurried scrawl mocked and laughed at him. Suddenly, and with unnecessary energy, he tore the sheet in many small pieces and dropped them to the floor.

"I say," remonstrated Alexander, whose bed-hour had been ignored because of a new detective tale, "Ling cleaned up here today for the first time in three months. That's a hell of a way to encourage him!"

"I'll pick them up," Bob muttered and he did, in a somewhat shamed, foolish way. He wired Marsha the next day, fearing she might wait for his answer before she wrote again: PARENTHESIS LETTERS HELP MORE THAN I CAN SAY AND I THANK YOU STOP PLEASE WRITE AS OFTEN AS YOU CAN WITHOUT TAXING YOUR STRENGTH STOP BOB PARENTHESIS."

But even with wiring there was a gap he felt to be years long, between those uncensored histories Marsha wrote for him. However, at length he read, and his heart pounded.

"This afternoon your mother and I looked at your baby clothes and she did enjoy it! Forgive me if I dare even more than usual to draw too close here, (I have just had your wire; I thank you for it) but I do want to express something of my own personal feeling.

"I do think that you should now be drawing much comfort from the fact that you have always been so good a son. You've made your mother so happy; you have never, in any way, failed her. I will write you, at your mother's dictation, tomorrow. Marsha."

He replied in a stilted way, with: "As I said before write me anything—everything—you will. Your letters, their length; content, could not annoy me!" then, under the push of all he felt, he added, "(They mean more to me, Marsha, than you will ever know.)"

But he scratched this out with a letter opener that one of the newest and still ambitious Northern recruits had made. After he did it he sat looking at the spot that he had scratched, which tells lots even to those souls who have the wisdom to let psychoanalysis go its own way undisturbed.

He longed for the relief of writing all he felt to her; he found himself aching to do it in the middle of those sleepless dreams which he had assured her would be, and which were. During the night he composed the most amazing of creeds—sometimes of a purely friendly nature, and sometimes of quite another sort.

(Copyright, 1934, by K. Haviland-Taylor.)

Bob sustains a great shock, to-morrow.

With Us Daily

Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto Him.

That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand.

Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition;

Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you, I told you these things

And now ye know what watchholdeth that he might be revealed in his time.

For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

And then shall that wicked be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming:

Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders.

And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie:

That they all might be damned who believed not the truth,
but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

But we are bound to give thanks always to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth:

Whereunto he called you by our gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Therefore, brethren, stand fast, and hold the traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our epistle.

Now our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation and good hope through grace.

Comfort your hearts, and establish you in every good word and work.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams
THE OPEN FIRE

I HAVE always been a lover of burning logs in an open fire. I like to sit in a room with all lights out save that glorious one that spreads its warm rays from the hearth.

There is something romantic and peaceful to the sight of crackling logs. I do not think that a place would seem like home without at least one fireplace as an asset. The one before which I have been sitting of late in the little lodge where I spend a few weeks of rest and reading in the summertime seems to be embellished with an extra aroma of love, for my boys and myself gathered the stones to build it from the shores hereabout. And we watched the mason ply his trowel with extra interest.

When the night is cool, and silence reigns, the glow of an open fire is a soothing sight. I watch and dream a little as well. And long after all have gone to their beds I love to linger until the last burning embers have faded into a dying dullness. I watch the last efforts of the life within the logs to overcome the flames—and many are the thoughts that brew as the last flickering rays of light cast their nervous shadows upon the ceiling or upon the floor.

Perhaps the entire philosophy of life is illustrated in the spectacle of this open fire! From the brilliant burning of the kindling to the last ash that falls away from the great logs, a certain joy and sadness intermingle. I walk away to my room to sleep with a memory—reluctantly.

Tonight, as I go to my bed, I take more than one memory with me—memories of friends gathered with me before this open fire that I have so much loved.

And so it is that we gather the wealth that holds us firm amidst the ever-changing circumstances of life. We live. Friends come and go. But memories grow upon us and enrich every experience of this all too rapidly fading span of life.

LONG'S TROOPS ARE WITHDRAWN

New Orleans Mayor Musters Police Army of Approximately 1,500.

New Orleans, Aug. 2 (AP)—As Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley mustered more men and guns than Senator Huey P. Long in their police-national guard "war," Adj. Gen. Raymond H. Flemming announced Wednesday night that half of the senator's national guardsmen were being demobilized. Almost 1,500 city police under Mayor Walmsley, armed with pistols, rifles and riot guns, were ready to engage the guardsmen if an attempt was made to usurp the New Orleans government.

Adjutant General Fleming, from his headquarters at Jackson barracks where 500 guardsmen were under arms, said he had dismissed "half of the 300 men called out" because "they were not needed."

"We are just going to keep as many men on duty as are necessary," he said. "We can get the others out at a moment's notice, anyhow. We might even let some more men go today."

A report that additional guardsmen were being brought in from other state points to reinforce the local garrison was denied by the adjutant general.

Gov. O. K. Allen, at Baton Rouge, broadened his proclamation of partial martial law and ordered the state soldiers to scurry throughout the city and uncover, "without the use of any force," asserted evidences of vice, gambling and graft.

Outlines Investigation

The new order directs Adjutant-General Fleming and his command to "make a survey and investigation to determine when and where red light districts are operating within the city of New Orleans under the new government."

Senator Wagner Is Injured in Accident

Westport, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—Swerving his automobile to avoid hitting a truck, Robert F. Wagner, United States senator, was injured and pursuant to sanction of city authorities.

"Who, if any, is collecting from the inhabitants of the said districts... and to determine where, when and by whom there are being operated within the city limits of New Orleans and adjacent areas thereto miscellaneous gambling."

Dr. Harold J. Harris, who treated them, said they could be moved today to their home in New York.

"One or two of Senator Wagner's ribs were fractured and Representative Prall has a compound fracture of the lower right leg," Dr. Harris said. "There was no evidence of skull fractures or concussions, but we are never sure of concussions until twenty-four hours later. Both have face and head lacerations."

HOME FOR THE CHILDREN

We keep a home to shelter them,
And guard it day by day;
For this one dream is, it must seem
A pleasant place to stay.
Within its walls must peace abide,
And tender love and true;
That girl and lad may both be glad
To pass its doorway through.

We pray each room may cheerful be,
And long with laughter ring;
That never they shall night or day
Find sweeter welcoming
At any door on any street
Than that to them we give.
With naught to fear to wait them here,
So long as they shall live.

Oh, we could live in rented rooms
In some apartment tall,
But should they race about the place
It would not do at all;
For strangers have a sullen way
When bothered by a noise.
So such space is not the place
For little girls and boys.

We keep a home to shelter them,
With ground for them to play;
And this our dream that it shall seem
A pleasant spot to stay.
And this our hope and this our prayer,
Wherever they may roam,
No thought unkind will come to mind
When'er they think of home.

Man Electrocuting Taking Down Aerial

Harrisburg, Aug. 2.—While taking down a radio aerial pole near his home Wednesday afternoon, Jesse Manning, 56, of Duncannon, was electrocuted when the pole swung against an electric power line.

His brother-in-law, Samuel Fissel, also of Duncannon, who was helping him, was knocked down but escaped injury as the current passed through the aerial pole, made of galvanized iron.

The pole was thirty feet high and was located at the side of Fissel's home on the south bank of Sherman's Creek. As Manning and Fissel pulled the pole from the ground it swayed against a power line about eight feet away.

Both Knocked Down
Both men were knocked down, but Fissel, who did not lose consciousness, went to the assistance of Manning and with the help of neighbors laid him in the shade of a tree at the side of Fissel's home. Manning was dead when a physician arrived.

Fissel was taken to the Harrisburg hospital, where it was found that he had not suffered any injury. Manning resided along the highway south of Sherman's Creek.

GIRL TRIES IN VAIN TO SAVE BOY FROM 3RD RAIL

Scranton, Aug. 2 (AP)—A heroic but futile battle to save the life of her brother, Norman, 11, was made by 12-year-old Marion Bennett Wednesday.

Marion and Norman were playing in East Scranton with other children when they decided to run across the tracks of the Laurel Line, an electric railway. As the youngsters crossed the tracks, Norman stumbled and fell across the dead third rail. While the other children screamed, Marion rushed to her brother's aid and struggled until she got him free from the electrically charged rail. But it was too late. The boy had been so badly burned that he died on the way to a hospital. Electricians were unable to explain how Marian escaped being shocked in her heroic efforts to save her brother.

MOST AMAZING PROOF EVER KNOWN OF EXTRA TRACTION AND NON-SKID SAFETY

UP... UP... UP... to 14,000 feet above sea-level! Skirting yawning chasms, tearing around 181 treacherous turns at breath-taking speeds, daredevil drivers fight their way up, grinding, pounding, swaying! In the annual Pike's Peak Race, where a slip means death, Firestone High Speed Tires were on the winning car. Surely this is the most amazing proof ever known of Extra Traction—Non-Skid Safety—and Dependability!

The new Firestone High Speed Tires for 1934 have the toughest, longest wearing tread Firestone has ever made. They have a wider tread of flatter contour, deeper non-skid, more and tougher rubber, giving you more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

Every cotton fiber inside every cord is soaked and coated with Extra Rubber — eight additional pounds absorbed by every 100 pounds of cotton cords. This is Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process that provides extra Blowout Protection.

50% LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE

Remember — with every Firestone Tire you get the Triple Guarantee

- for Unequaled Performance Records
